CASE WAS SETTLED.

Constable Kepple went to McKeesport yesterday morning and arrested John Lieb on a warrant issued by Squire Shuster V N. Shuster charging him with getting money under false pretense. Miss Annie King furnished the information.

Lieb was to have been given a hearing before Squire Shuster this morning but the case was settled by Lieb paying Miss King the disputed sum It seems that Lieb and Miss King after a warm courtship had became engaged some time ago and that shortly after the betrothal Lieb borrowed a sum of money from Miss King and then basely transferred his affections elsewhere. WYANT A FAMOUS SPORT

Yesterday's Greensburg Review contained the following article about our city solicitor:

"The sweepstake golf tournament for the loving cup offered by Judge John B Head, was ended at the links of the Greensburg Country Club on Saturday, with A. M Wyant, Esq returning the lowest score and being declared the winner.

There was one of the largest crowds at the Country Club that has been there this fall. There were about forty players on the links and some nice work was done Mr Ogden and Mrs J C Reed were tie for the second honors, both returning the same scores Mr Wyant's handicap was 10, Mr Ogden's 17 and Mrs Reed's 21

This was the first big event that has been held on the links and proved a great success. Every Saturday afternoon there has been a big crowd there for the playing and golf has gotten a strong hold in Greensburg.

He will leave tomorrow night for New York to purchase stock for the new store and to order thirty new uniforms for the Finlander's band of Monessen, he being the lowest bider among Pittsburg, McKeesport and Philadelphia merchants

Mr Nyberg is a successful merchant, and at present is proprietor of a large department store at Glassport The opening of his new store here will no doubt be looked forward to with much anxiety.

BIG DOINGS AT THE STAR

Last night's attraction at the Star theatre was worthy, and is receiving the highest commendation by the large crowds which passed in and out the theatre doors during the three performances Ivy, Delmar and Ivy fairly captivated the audience and it is only a worthy comment when we say that they are artists in the strongest sense of the term The little boy, Master Harry Sacks proved to be as clever as recommended and the repeated applause he received is a testimonial as to his superior ability to entertain These attractions are rare for Monessen and Manager McShaffrey is certainly doing credit to his popular play house in providing such wholesome entertainment for his patrons Tonight a much larger crowd is expected to be present

THE diphtheria scare is now about over in Monessen. The past three days have developed no new cases and all patients who were confined with the disease are reported getting along nicely. This news is certainly gratifying as the contageon is spreading rapidly in several of the nearby towns. Health Officer Arner has used every possible effort to check the threatened epedemic and the work seems to have been pretty thoroughly done.

THE Chicago Health department is going to investigate the office towel. If the investigation reaches to the print shops, it would be wise to get an X-ray machine or the density of the article may hinder the progress of the work.

A Washington boarding house keeper announces that couples with dogs or children will not be accommodated. Nothing is said, however, that will be detrimental to old maids with their parots.

SIMPLIFIED Chinese laundry checks will be the next thing to make somebody famoue.

For the Stomach Heart and Kidneys

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a Cause Cure—not a Symptom Cure.

It is a common mistake to take artificial digesters for stomach troubles—or heart stimulants for weak heart—or so-called kidney remedies for diseased kidneys. These organs do not act separately or of their own accord—they have no control over themselves—and not once in 800 times is the sickness the fault of the organ. It is the fault of the nerves which control the organ—and only through these nerves can stomach, kidney or heart disorders be cured. Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wisconsin, learned early in his medical experience that these inside nerves were the power nerves—that through them only was it possible to cure indigestion, heartburn, belching, insomnia, backache, heart weakness, and Bright's disease and all other affections of the kidneys. For all of these ailments are not to be treated as such. They are merely symptoms of inside nerve weakness, and when the nerves are restored the symptoms and the sickness disappear. The remedy which Dr. Shoop prescribed for these ailing nerves is known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It relieves the pain and distress of kidney, stomach and heart troubles quicker even than those medicines demand simply to give temporary relief. Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets or Liquid can be had of druggists everywhere. The

THE PINK KIMONO

By IZOLA FORRESTER

Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas

It lay on the massive settee in the hall, an innocent looking parcel, flat and somewhat square. Three of Warwick's letters lay on top of it, neatly, as the hall boy had placed them, also his weekly paper from home.

Warwick glanced at the letters, again at the clock, tossed off his hat, coat and gloves and carried the whole lot, parcel, letters and paper, into the comfortable study and dropped into a deep chair.

There was an hour before the crowd would arrive. Everything was ready. The spread would be sent up at 8:30 sharp He hoped Stanton would be able to get away. He liked Stanton. The boy needed a good friendly grip just now. He knew himself what it was to be in New York a stranger. Money could not give one the password that admitted one to the inside of things, the "getting next to the itness of all," as Stanton said. And if the right path did not open, and one happened to be lonely, there were others wide and welcoming. Warwick knew.

The boy was young and clever. The only thing that ailed him was too much money, and the confidence he had therein He was a bit handy with it all—the whirl and the swing and the chance for big success. Warwick had kept an eye on him for weeks, measuring and judging him, and now he was satisfied. All the boy needed was direction and a cool hand checking him now and then, and he would win out.

Warwick opened the weekly paper from home and smiled to himself at the familiar heading, the Weekly Visitor. Ever since he could remember the Weekly Visitor had visited regularly at the quiet, big gray house that crowned Warwick's hill, up in Hillsboro, N. H. And Stanton was from the country, too, some place out west, out in Nebraska. He wondered if he had a weekly paper, too, to keep him in touch with the old world, and the ethics and standards of something be sides New York.

The letters were unimportant. He took up the parcel and slipped off the cord Laundry probably He had not ordered anything.

The paper fell to the floor and he sat staring at the thing in his hands It was a pink, delicate, shimmering, silken thing He stood up and shook it out to its full length It reached to the floor. It was not a bath robe. It could not possibly be a smoking jacket. It was a woman's garment, unmistakably.

The texture was the softest Japanese crape, the silk interwoven around the sleeves and neck in a border of golden butterflies. There was no mark on it nor on the paper. Warwick looked carefully.

The door bell buzzed imperatively, once, twice and a long one. That was Billy Trainor's ring. Warwick hesitated, cast the pink silk thing behind him on the chair and opened the door

Billy stepped in smilingly, interrogatively looked about the room and spied the pink silk thing

"Rex," he said reproachfully, "why Rex!"

"It was left here by mistake," said Warwick hastily "The hall boy did it. What is it?"

Billy lifted it by the shoulders and beamed with the appreciative eye of a connoisseur

"It's a kimono, the real imported article No bargain sale Who's the lucky lady?"

The door bell buzzed again War wick took the kimono with deliberate forethought, went to the wardrobe in his dressing room and concealed it therein

"It's Stanton," Billy announced, "and the rest"

Warwick played the host with more inner discomfort than ever before in his life It was not the mere fact of the mistake that troubled him, nor that he minded the boys knowing of it, but he didn't want to see that particular what had Billy called it? kimono?—handled and laughed about and speculated over. Somewhere there must be the girl who wanted that kimono He hoped she was a brunette Pink was best for brunettes Not too much of a brunette, perhaps with blue eyes, or gray—yes, gray—a gray eye or so

Billy was pushing back the chairs and taborets for the spread Stanton was singing at the piano Out in the kitchenette Yates and Rogers and the Danforths were rummaging for dishes and knives and forks Big De Veau was up on the divan with its red Turkish cover draped picturesquely about him, reciting some original poetry.

"Rex, don't you own a decent table cloth, you beggar?" called Yates.

Warwick smoked without replying Through the haze he saw the brunette girl with the pink kimono about her smiling deliciously like a geisha no, he didn't want her to be a geisha smiling, well, just as a girl should smile when she had the right one to smile at.

Stanton left the piano and came over.

"Say, you're a prince to get me here tonight," he said. "I didn't know you had a place like this Beats hotels, doesn't it? What do you call it?"

"Studio apartment," said Warwick, lazily. "Half den, half home, not confined to bachelors I like it. When a follow's had a home, it always sticks to him a bit. There's a Jap comes in and cleans up for me, and if I want a meal, I can have it"

"I—I am going to housekeeping too," began Stanton awkwardly.

"Honeymoon?" Warwick's eyes lighted with amusement. He had not dreamed the boy had gone so far.

"No, not as bad as that," Stanton hesitated, glancing at the joyous, riotous crowd about the piano. It's my sister. Mother's sent her on to take care of me until she can come herself. I guess they didn't get very good accounts of their little boy in Manhattan. But I wrote home and told them about you and what sort of a chap you were and how you had taken me under your wing, and I promised to cut out the hotel and—well, a whole lot of things mother didn't like the flavor of, and today"—

"Whoopee!" yelled Yates from the dressing room. "I've found Warry's tablecloth. It's a dream!"

Warwick sat up and dropped his cigarette. Waltzing dizzily, radiantly, wickedly out from the dressing room came Yates, arrayed in the pink silk kimono. There was a silence, then a long drawn howl of delight from the crowd They caught Yates in their arms, and swept him up on the center table. They handed him a Samoan fan of dyed plumes and a Mexican peaked hat. Trainor at the piano crashed into the "San Toy" overture. And suddenly Warwick stood up, white and mad, mad clear through that they should dare even in jest to touch anything that belonged to the dear, unknown girl, the brunette with the gray eyes.

"Take that off!" he said.

The music stopped short, but not from his words. Every face in the crowd was turned toward the door of the hall, and Yates looked helpless and miserable. Warwick turned, too, and held his breath. She stood in the doorway, one hand lifting aside the heavy drapery. Behind her was George, the colored hall boy. Her face looked startled, and yet there was amusement, too, in the wide gray eyes, as they glanced from face to face and finally rested on Yates.

"There is some mistake, I think," she said gently. "George tells me a parcel of mine was left here tonight. I have only moved here today, and he made a mistake. I think that gentleman has on my kimono."

Wretched, limp and apologetic, Yates was assisted from the table, and divested of the pink silk gown.

"I am sorry to spoil your amusement"— she stopped, and turned her head toward Warwick as the host, when all at once her eyes met Stanton's

"Marjorie!" he gasped. "Marjorie, you blessed kid!"

Silently and discreetly the crowd averted its composite face while Stanton kissed Marjorie ecstatically. Warwick looked unhappy.

"Boys," cried Stanton, "this is my sister, all the way from Nebraska to Manhattan to take care of her little brother"

"Mother is here, too," Marjorie explained, blushing at the effusive welcome accorded her. "We had the address of these apartments and you wrote that they were very nice, you know, and that Mr. Warwick lived here"—

"That's Warwick," interposed Stanton "He's a bully fellow."

Warwick bowed. Suddenly he felt a great, supreme gladness steal over him. She had gray eyes, Stanton's sister from Nebraska.

"So we came right here from the depot, and mother wanted to surprise you by having everything ready. I bought my kimono on the way here, because our trunks haven't come yet, and the boy made a mistake delivering it We have the apartment just across the hall."

"Boys," cried Stanton, "come on to the apartment across the hall and be introduced. You've got to make us welcome, because we've come to stay."

Decorously and quietly the crowd crossed to the apartment next door. With dignity and beautiful grace they were introduced to Stanton's mother and to Stanton's home, and Stanton knew he was accepted and admitted forever to the "itness of things"

But Warwick sat in a corner watching Marjorie make tea, tea from his teapot, which the Jap servant had brought over, and over the back of her chair hung the pink silk kimono. He was wondering how she would look in it

"Sugar?" she asked "One or two, Mr. Warwick?"

"Two," said Warwick, with a half suppressed sigh. "Say, do you know Miss Stanton, I'm awfully glad you're a brunette, with gray eyes"

"Why?" Marjorie's head bent lower over the teapot. Tea making does require so much careful attention.

"Because," said Warwick, "pink is so becoming to that type"

"And to Mr Yates' type, too," laughed Marjorie, but her face was flushed as she slipped the pink kimono around her, over her gray traveling suit, and poured the tea a la Japanese for the crowd, and for Warwick.

Grasshopper Glacier.

One of the small glaciers in Montana is of special interest on account of the fact that in the mass of ice there are imbedded two strata of grasshoppers, each about a foot thick. There are literally tons of grasshoppers in the ice, and the question naturally arises as to where they came from. The most obvious explanation is that centuries ago two enormous swarms in course of migration were caught in a snowstorm, chilled and buried in the snow, where they have remained till now in a perfect state of preservation In the accounts of the early western explorers a few instances are related of meeting large swarms of locusts on the mountain tops in the Rockies It is a very fortunate circumstance that the great extension of agriculture in the west has broken up the breeding grounds of these insects.—St. Louis Republic.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
To find relief and cure?
No reason why any reader
Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Front St., Traverse City, Mich., says: "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and lack of circulation Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted figures. The kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular, and I was tortured with thirst and always bloated. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bloating subsided until I weighed 100 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

SENATOR WOODS NAMED

Greensburger Will be Asked to Act as Referee.

The conference of the fiftieth senatorial district met at Greensburg Saturday for the seventh time and adjourned without making a nomination. Owing to the continued deadlock it was understood that State Chairman W. R. Andrews would appoint a sixth referee, but he refused, as the nomination papers must be filed at Harrisburg no later than Tuesday. At the suggestion of the Mercer county conferees it was decided to ask Senator Cyrus E. Wood, of Greensburg to act as referee and in the event of his refusing, former Judge Elliot Rodgers of Allegheny.

Protection For Swimmers.

"Cotton in the ears," said a physician, "should be used by all those who swim out beyond their depth You know how often good swimmers of that type drown, don't you? Their drowning is imputed to cramp, but you will never find one of the drowned with his ears stuffed with cotton. Why? I'll tell you why. Because it isn't cramp that causes these drownings. It is a perforation of the eardrum, followed by unconsciousness, due to the pressure of the water. Cramp isn't, after all, the deadly thing it is made out to be If you get a cramp in your leg while swimming it is easy enough to roll over on your back and float. The cramp won't kill you. But a perforation of the ear drum is different It takes away your senses, and down you go like a log So always, if you are going to do much swimming stuff cotton in your ears" New York Press

Diamond Mine Prisons.

Each of the great South African diamond mines has its several compounds, where the Kaffirs are imprisoned These are inclosures with walls sufficiently high to prevent escape, and around the walls is a stretch of roofing sufficient to prevent the inmates from tossing diamonds to the outside to be picked up by confederates In the early days the Kaffirs used to throw diamonds over the walls in tin cans, so that their wives or friends might come and pick them up When the Kaffirs go to Kimberley from their tribes they agree to submit to imprisonment The shortest period is three months, but there are many who have never been out of the compounds for two or three years—World's Work.

A Funny Incident.

When Senator Wolcott first went to Colorado he and his brother opened a law office at Idaho Springs under the firm name of "Ed Wolcott & Bro" Later the partnership was dissolved. The future senator picked his few assets, including the sign that had hung outside of his office, upon a burro and started for Georgetown, a mining town farthur up in the hills. Upon his arrival he was greeted by a crowd of miners who critically surveyed him and his outfit One of them looking first at the sign that hung over the pack, then at Wolcott and finally at the donkey ventured, "Say, stranger, which of you is Ed?"

The Art of the Parasol.

A well adjusted parasol enables you to hide blushes you don't want people to see and to hide the blushes that aren't there if you want people to think they are, and it enables you to cut people who deserve to be cut and to avoid people whom you daren't cut, but whom you particularly don't want to see.—"The World and His Wife."

Shaving.

The earliest known mention of shaving is in the Bible (Genesis xliv, 14). "And he (Joseph) shaved himself and came before Pharaoh" Shaving the beard was introduced by the Romans about 300 B C

Little Egypt's Burlesquers.

Little Egypt's Big Musical Extravaganza, presenting a series of pleasant surprise in the way of comedy, vaudeville and burlesque, will be at the Monessen Opera House, tomorrow night.

The management has introduced several distinct departures from all former rules of burlesque, and will offer a programme of novelties most pleasing to burlesque patrons, including "Little Egypt's" famous specialty. The performance in detail is as follows

The curtain rises on a merry musical melange "A Ride to Roundar," introducing the entire company, uproarious comedy, sensational features, musical ensembles and clever specialties There are over a score of pretty girls in the chorus, and they can sing and dance in the most approved style The costumes and scenery displayed in this skit are said to be elaborate and lend an effective background to the action of the burlesque. Following this skit comes the vaudeville presenting: The Sylvesters; La Belle Zoe, Prof Pollon, in a sensational comedy acrobatic act, Maxwell & Elliott, duet act, and Jennings & Webb, in a comedy sketch The closing burlesque is called "Gay Girls of Paris," and will present all members in a pot pourri of all that is good in burlesque. The costumes of the chorus are said to be elaborate Little Egypt appears in this number.
